Claim 5 (Currently amended): The method of claim 4, further including placing the ~~manipulative~~ piece onto the strip of the first roll.

Claim 6 (Currently amended): A device for body and hair accessorizing comprising: a first roll of material that is separable into at least one strip, wherein the material includes a first and a second side, and the strip includes a first end and a second end; and an adhesive disposed on at least one side of the material, the material comprising the following characteristics:

(a) repeatedly self-adherent but not securely adherent to skin or hair,

(b) resiliently stretchable; and

(c) wrappable and conformable to itself, body part or strands of hair;

wherein the strip is adapted to surround one of a body part and strands of hair, such that the first and second ends of the strip ~~engaged~~engage to secure the strip to the one of a body part and strands of hair.

Claim 7 (Original): The device for body and hair accessorizing of claim 6, wherein the adhesive is disposed on the first and second sides of the material.

Claim 8 (Original): The device for body and hair accessorizing of claim 6, wherein the adhesive is integral to the material.

Claim 9 (Original): The device for body and hair accessorizing of claim 6, wherein the material is perforated.

Claim 12 (Original): The device for body and hair accessorizing of claim 6, wherein the first and second ends of the strip are engaged using self-adhesive properties of the material.

Claim 13 (Original): The device for body and hair accessorizing of claim 6, wherein the first and second ends of the strip are engaged using a fastener disposed on the first and second ends of the strip.

Claim 14 (Currently amended): A device for body and hair accessorizing comprising:
a first roll of self-adhesive perforated rubber material that is separable into at least one strip, wherein the material includes a first and a second side, and the strip includes a first end and a second end, the material comprising the following characteristics:

~~manipulative~~ piece, the material comprising the following characteristics:

- (a) repeatedly self-adherent but not securely adherent to skin or hair,
- (b) resiliently stretchable; and
- (c) wrappable and conformable to itself, body part or strands of hair;

wherein the material includes a first and a second side, wherein the strip is adapted to surround one of a body part and strands of hair, such that the first and second ends of the strip engaged to secure the strip to the one of a body part and strands of hair, and wherein the ~~manipulative~~ piece is adapted secure to the strip by virtue of the self-adhesiveness of the material.

Claim 15 (Original): The device for body and hair accessorizing of claim 14, wherein the first and the second rolls differ in color.

Claim 16 (New): A device for body and hair accessorizing comprising:
a strip of material which includes a first and a second side and a first end and a second end; and
